

CANADA NEEDS MANY SETTLERS

Member for Nanaimo Upholds Policy of Encouragement for Agriculturalists.

Ottawa, April 24.—The Commons went today discussing the immigration question. After a long debate had been said on Mr. Mackenzie's resolution, placing the question on record as being opposed to the whole system of encouraging immigrants to the class most needed in Canada, namely, those who intend to settle permanently, the resolution was buried beneath a large government majority and beneath the weight of sound and irrefragable arguments. It was a debate characterized by personal versus optimism.

Mr. Cockburn (Brampton) the Opposition's "Apostle of pessimism," made another of the depressing speeches that have marred this session. Canada's present and future he saw only in gloom.

Following the wall of the member from Brampton, the effect of his pessimism was that of a spell of bright sunshine. I had had a foreboding sense, but perhaps none impressed the House like his vigorous justification of the immigration policy of the government from the point of view of labor interests.

Will Protect Labor Interests.

Alphonse Verreille (Montreal) sought to create the impression that the bonus system was inimical to the interests of the working man, and that the organized body of labor was opposed to it. Speeches of this nature are equal and certain with greater force, Ralph Smith (Nanaimo) effectively refuted that view. In the first place he showed most conclusively that the policy of the government was not to encourage immigration which would compete with labor in Canadian cities, and secondly, he pointed out most emphatically that the interests of the people are unfavorable to the present system.

Brushing aside the narrow and unrepresentative views of Messrs. Lavigne and Monk, he submitted a carefully prepared resolution, the government's policy of immigration was, was not, in fact, to encourage immigration as a whole. Under any scheme of immigration, based on the fact that there was a great and certain proportion of undesirable immigrants, the future of the country depended on settlement of her lands in the west, and as these were filling up with rich class the vast territories of the west would be gradually developed and new and better settlements would be created, which would benefit all classes.

Present Policy For Progress.

On the other hand, if the policy of the government was to encourage immigration, the logical conclusion the immigration machinery of the government would practically disappear. It would be without the supervision and control of the government. The settlement would be retarded, stagnation would take the place of development, and the state of the country would be an unfavorable one. The government in its immigration policy did not discriminate against the various provinces, in favor of the west.

Benefits All Canada Equally.

Ottawa, had, as a matter of fact, received more immigrants than Manitoba, and almost as many as Saskatchewan and Alberta combined. He regretted the exclusion of the British farmers to the United States and the Canadian regions. He pointed out the conditions of labor, and showed that the people of the west were encouraging immigration, and that the government in its immigration policy did not discriminate against the various provinces, in favor of the west.

FROM DAY TO DAY

TODAY.

Only from day to day.
The life of a man runs;
What matter it so long as he
Has done or have double sure.
Our eyes on the torrent's brink.
Our feet on the cloud's stair.
We fear the things that rise
From the things that are.
Like a tide our work should rise.
Each later was the best.
Today is a king in Japan.
Today is the special test.

Like a sower's work is life;
The present makes the flow,
And the only field for strife
Is the inch before the trow.

A CANADIAN HEAD FOR A CANADIAN NAVY.

It is not without significance that Canada is yearly making new strides toward the dignity of a national entity, and while the latter is the establishment of an Imperial Navy, it is also some newly as well as interest in the statement that Capt. Chas. Kingston will likely succeed Capt. Spence as the head of the training fleet in the Dominion. He is a Canadian, and was born in Quebec, Ont., as a midshipman on H. M. S. Royal Alfred thirty years ago, the Royal Alfred being then stationed at Quebec. He was later transferred to H. M. S. Revenge, previous to his course on the training ship Britannia at Dartmouth, England.

After completing his course on the training ship Britannia, he was appointed to the command of H. M. S. Majestic with headquarters at Gibraltar. Capt. Kingston was later transferred to the command of H. M. S. Dominion, commanding the latter ship when it carried the remains of Hon. Raymond Prentiss from France to Canada.

After his return from France to Canada, he was again appointed to the command of H. M. S. Majestic with headquarters at Gibraltar. Capt. Kingston was later transferred to the command of H. M. S. Dominion, commanding the latter ship when it carried the remains of Hon. Raymond Prentiss from France to Canada.
